Meet the Executive Committee

Greetings!

Welcome to a new feature of our newsletter. We are asking members of our Executive Committee and of our Chapter to introduce themselves in our newsletter. This month we feature Christine Hogan, Member at Large.

As I reflect back on my career in music, I realize music came to claim me as a centerpoint of my life, nearly from the beginning.

I grew up in Glen Rock, New Jersey, a suburb of Manhattan, in a family that prioritized music. I began piano at age 6 and violin in 3rd grade. My father played cello growing up and my earliest orchestral experience was playing violin with him in the Glen Rock Pops Orchestra at 8 years old. I loved Thursday nights where I could stay up until 9:15 in order to go to rehearsals, and regularly receive $1.50 at break to get a soda and snack from the vending machines. Throughout my childhood years I continued as both a concert pianist and violinist and enjoyed playing both instruments in several orchestras and venues including Lincoln Center.

I was encouraged to work hard at my musical training and I soon found that I had an aptitude for being an “accompanist” and was a skilled sight-reader. I have always loved playing piano for other instrumentalists and began playing my sister’s cello teacher’s studio recitals at age 8. My first church professional “gig” was at 13 when I became the organist of the Arcola United Methodist Church in Paramus, New Jersey. The pastor was the father of one of the cello students I played for and asked me to fill the position. I was able to continue playing there until I went to North Carolina School for the Arts to finish high school. While there, I had the opportunity to study piano with Eric Larson. I spent my last three summers of high school at Tanglewood in their piano program studying with Maria Clodes-Jaguaribe and knew at 16 that I wanted to go to Boston University for college to study with her. Another highlight of that time at Tanglewood was performing Appalachian Spring for piano four-hands at the Main Campus.

My freshman year at BU two other opportunities presented themselves when I first became the Music Director at Church of All Nations in Boston, and then Music Director at the Catholic Center of Boston University. During this time. I took a year off from college to earn money to finish my studies and except for Sunday mornings, worked as a waitress at Boston Beer Works. This was an especially auspicious choice because that is where I met and fell in love with my husband, Paul. I finished my last two years of undergrad and we were married 13 days after graduation and had our first child one year later.

As I was finishing my undergrad studies I decided that I needed to become a “real” organist and asked my dear friend, Julian Wachner, if he would teach me. He generously agreed and then asked, “Have you thought about getting an MSM? If you do that your organ lessons would be part of the program.” I had never heard of an MSM before but once he explained it, I immediately walked over to the School of Theology, set up an appointment with Dean of Admissions, Earl Beane, applied, and was on my way. I am a very grateful alum for Boston University provided extraordinary opportunities including the chance to train and work with world-class musicians such as Julian Wachner, Ann Jones, and Max Miller.

My career has been consistently centered on church jobs working in a wide variety of churches. That afforded me the opportunity to continue to expand my skills to include handbells, both directing and performing.

One of my biggest passions, both professionally and in my personal life, is to find ways to support young musicians and artists. Few things have been more gratifying than seeing first-hand what access to music education can provide for young people. I consider it an honor and a responsibility to do all that I can to help instill a love, appreciation and admiration for the organ in the younger generation, both for the performers, as well as the builders and the listeners.

Because of this, I am extremely involved in music education and performances. I served as Chair of the Curtis Friends of Music where I oversaw the fundraising for a grand piano for the auditorium, was Music Director and Pianist for the ECMS Theatre Troupe for 12 years, am pianist for the choral program at Curtis Middle School and occasionally play for Lincoln Sudbury choral, theatre and orchestral programs. I also served 6 years on the Sudbury School Committee where I actively advocated for the importance of music education. I have also coached and managed my children’s soccer and baseball teams over the years, am a US Swimming Official, and enjoy baking and gardening and walks and playtime with Josie, our 9-month old puppy. What I treasure most, however, is spending time with my family, which includes Paul and our five amazing children, who range in age from 11-23.

During the past 14 months it has become even more apparent how important music is in all our lives, and the positive impact music has on others. Like so many of you, I have worked hard throughout this past year to keep music consistent and accessible in my current job, and it has created many opportunities for outreach and connectedness during some of the more isolating periods of COVID, and opportunities for some who have not been able to participate in our programs before to do so now. Ultimately, I am enormously grateful for my career in music.

Walking Tune

A cheerful tune arranged from a woodwind quintet by Percy Grainger. A colorful, fun piece for concert with all of Grainger's original markings that encourage a flexible interpretation.

Were You There?

A moving work that begins simply, grows in harmonic richness and ends majestically, an expression of the Resurrection of our Lord. An effective piece for Holy Week.

SPAC Grant Made to Conference

The Special Projects Advisory Committee (SPAC) of the Boston Chapter has made a grant of $2,000 to the conference described below. Kola Owolabi, Professor of Organ at the Sacred Music Department of Notre Dame is the leader of this conference. This grant was approved by the Boston Chapter's Executive Committee on April 19.

“Diversity and Belonging: Unsung Keyboard Stories,” is scheduled to take place in Ann Arbor and Detroit, Michigan from January 26-30, 2022. This conference is cosponsored by the University of Michigan and the Westfield Center for Historical Keyboard Studies/Cornell Center for Historical Keyboards, in collaboration with Sphinx-Connect. Conference planning committee members include the University of Michigan organ, piano, carillon, and harpsichord faculty and students, organ faculty at University of Notre Dame, and Westfield board members. Conference concerts will be free to the general public. The conference is available to registered attendees (free to students), and some events livestreamed and video-recorded. With lasting impact, this conference will model best practice strategies for organists to promote the pipe organ by addressing the underrepresentation of people of color and women in the keyboard world. Presenters will tell the unsung stories of keyboardists and composers of color—notable musicians who have been left out of most music history books and performance venues.

Welcome New Members

We are pleased to welcome two new members to our Chapter:

Bill Thompson just relocated from Georgia to Massachusetts. He is a lifetime organist and choirmaster/organist most recently at First Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) in Winder, GA. He accepted his first church position at age 16 and has been playing ever since. He had an exceptional beginning teacher, especially in a small town in Texas. Bill pursued organ studies at Southern Methodist Univ. but decided not to proceed to advanced degrees or a full-time career. He loves teaching beginning organ students, though they have been few and far between. One of his students received a scholarship in organ to Indiana University. Bill looks forward to becoming involved as much as possible in the life of BAGO.

Randall Steere has joined our Chapter as a Dual Member from the Merrimack Valley Chapter. Randy used to live in Boston and was the Assistant Organist at Old South Church under Greg Peterson for quite a few years. Although he now lives north of Boston, has retired, and wants to keep up with what's going on in Boston. He's using his new found time in retirement to learn new repertoire and enjoys practicing again.

Rex Ryan has joined our Chapter as a Dual Member from the Greater Kansas City Chapter.

Please extend a warm welcome to Bill, Randy, and Rex

Thank you Stephan

Stephan Griffin has resigned his position as Member-at-Large on the Executive Committee. Stephan gave his time and commitment to the Chapter and we thank him on behalf of the Boston Chapter.

Stephan, we look forward to seeing you at future events.

Operating Procedures Update

Some members of the Executive Committee have been working diligently over the past months on three new sections for the Chapter's operating procedures document: Invested Funds, the Organ Library, and the Special Projects Advisory Committee (SPAC). We have been advised by several people, including officers from National, to develop this material. The effort has also included finding information on the history of these significant Chapter assets, and the plan is to post histories on the web site for reference by Chapter members and those who will serve in leadership positions in the future.

Our Finance Committee has drafted policies and procedures for oversight and management of our invested funds with Morgan Stanley. Chapter members on this committee are Daryl Bichel, Alain Bojarski, Claire DeCusati, Fr David Michael, Louise Mundinger, and Deans Jeremy Bruns and Mitchell Crawford. Most of the invested funds were garnered from national convention proceeds when Boston hosted. These funds support the Organ Library and SPAC, and can be tapped for the Chapter's operating budget if needed.

In accord with Chapter operating procedures, the Organ Library and SPAC are operated by committees appointed by the Chapter. The Organ Library is a special treasure indeed; no other Chapter in the Guild boasts such a resource. It was established in 1983 and has been well managed since then by a faithful Library Committee comprised of Chapter members with extensive leadership experience and a great sense of ommitment. Chapter member Carl Klein is currently the Librarian, and deserves recognition for what has been achieved.

The specific purpose of the Special Projects Advisory Committee ("SPAC") is to solicit, review and make funding recommendations to the Chapter's Executive Committee on grants to worthwhile individuals and organizations for special projects which further the cause of the organ and its music. It too is a valued program of the Chapter.

We will keep the membership posted regarding completion of these projects, and provide regular articles about Organ Library and SPAC activities in Pipings

Child Safety Committee looking for one more team member

We are looking for one more member to join this team with Robert.

Committee candidates must be willing to undergo Massachusetts CORI (Criminal Offender Record Information) and SORI (Sex Offender Registry Information) Screening (at Chapter expense), sign a confidentiality agreement, and be approved by the Executive Committee.

If you are interested in serving our Chapter in this manner, please contact Louise Mundinger
